He Made This 25c Test

Old John says, "I had to get up 5 or 6 times every night. Thisbladder irregularity was accompanied with scanty flow, burning and backache. I flushed out excess acids with little green tablets containing buchu leaves, juniper oil, etc. called BUKETS. They work on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. After four days if not pleased any druggist will refund your 25c. I sleep good now."

FATHER Darkleafs Column

Wherein Ye Editor Gets in a Personal Word

• • •

See where Herbert Marshall will be in a show in Lynchburg next week. Father Darkleaf might report that Herbert has a wooden leg and you never see him climbing steps in a picture.

• • •

Right now the topic may be of baseball or football, but next Tuesday they will be raving about the Joe Louis—Max Baer fight in New York. Louis is a colored fighter and there's the rub. There have been lots of good colored fighters. There was Little Black Bill Richmond, who fought back in 1815. Even before him there was Daniel Mendoza, who is supposed to have had colored blood. Others were Tom Molineaux Joe Jeannette, Joe Gans and the late recent Jack Johnson, George Godfrey and Battling Siki and Tiger Flowers. Jack Blackburn, Sam Lankford and Sam McVey were other Othellos of the ring.

• • •

Personally we'd rather see Joe Louis head a regiment to go to the wars in Ethiopia than fight a white man.

• • •

This week's bright idea: Stop worrying. Let the Germans and them that black boys a carlond of straight HAZOES.

• • •

Father Darkleaf got on the elevator with his excellency, the governor of Virginia, at the Marshall last Friday during the big Democratic convention. We all had on delegate's badges with our names emblazoned thereon, and I noticed the governor's name was spelled down in his badge. So: "Well governor, if they had my name upside down, no one would know who I was, but you are more fortunate, for it really doesn't matter whether your name is Sphere or Set ....." and so on until I found myself on the tenth floor, whereas I was aimed to disembark on the second. Such is her worship.

AT THE PARAMOUNT

Bright- spirited comedy. Lifting love songs, and gay romance make Ring Crosby's "Two for Tonight", which plays at the Paramount Theatre, Lynchburg through Saturday, one of grand hour of fun and entertainment, topped by a supporting cast of unusual ability. Joan Bennett furnishes the object of Crosby's affections and countless hilarious situations are supplied by the buoyant inanities of Mary Boland Overman.

Be sure and prepare yourself for piles of rib-tickling laughter as Bing's newest laugh rift whith prove the crooner with plenty of opportunity to indulge his flair as an ace singer and master of farce.

Besides "Two for Tonight" the Paramount is introducing the South's premier organist as the console of the beautiful Paramount organ, Miss Della Deen Orr playing a medley of popular hits. Miss Deen has had years of experience both in the theatre and over the network and is destined to win a place in the hearts of every lover of good music.

Next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the Paramount brings another of the greater new show hits to the movie lovers of this vicinity. "Accent on Youth" is a delightfully amusing, charmingly sophisticated love story of a girl in love with a handsome bachelor twice her age. "Accent on Youth" boasts a cast of favorites including Sylvia Sidney, Herbert Marshall, Phillip Reed and Astrid Allwyn. (adv.)

AT THE ISIS

For your week end entertainment the Isis Theatre in Lynchburg brings the people of this vicinity three big thrill hits on one program at their regular prices that are well within the means of everyone.

For the feature unit on this outstanding program which plays at the Isis Friday and Saturday the management has been successful in obtaining the latest screen version taken from the story by America's greatest writer of out door drama, Zane Grey again scores and adds another hit to his long line of successes in "Wanderer of the Wasteland." This faithful screen version features Dean Jagger, Gail Patrick and Buster Crabbe and promises unsurpassed screen thrills and out door action.

As the second hit the Isis presents the 1st episode of the thrilling new serial sensation, "Call of the Savage" with Noah Beery Jr. and Dorothy Short. Extra fun is furnished on this program by "Our Gang" in their new comedy success "Little Papa."

Hospital Campaign

Amount Of Free Work Totals Up To $87-906.97 For 8 Year Period

Free work at the Southside Community hospital has averaged $11,000 a year since this institution was opened on November, 1927.

During the nearly eight years from November 7, 1927 to August 1, 1935 the total amount of free work done by the hospital has reached the staggering sum of $87,906.97. Part of this cost has been met by some of the boards of supervisors of the counties in the hospital's area. The counties of Amelia, Appomattox, Buckingham Charlotte Cumberland, Lunenburg, Nottaway Powhatan and Prince Edward are in the area.

The sum contributed by the boards of supervisors and the town of Farmville during the 8 years amounts to $48,843.65.

Despite the donations of the various civic bodies the expenses of the hospital has averaged more than $2,000 a year above such donations. Because the hospital has contin ually lived from hand to mouth, and because the expense of free work has grown rapidly in the last few years, the board of directors of the hospita, decided to conduct a campaign, from October 7 to November 7 of this year to raise $5,000 for operating expenses It is thought that with this amount the hospital can get its budget rightened out and operate more efficiently from a financial point of view than is now possible.

Insect Cannibals Lower Crop Loss

Earworm Has Habit of Eating Its Fellows; Baits Greater Damage.

Supplied by the United States Department of Agriculture—WNU Service

The corn earworm's unfriendly habit of eating its fellows serves a great deal of corn that would be destroyed by these insect pests if they lived more amicably together. Out of several ear worms put together—sometimes as many as 20—entering the same ear of corn, only one may live to become an adult moth, according to recent studies by entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture. The sole survivor of the 20 does not make away with all the others. Perhaps it kills only one or two. Its victims, however, may have accounted for one or two more and so on. Corn earworm cannibalism is progressive

Corn with long, tight-fitting husks is more conducive to cannibalism among earworms than corn with short, loose-fitting husks. The hungry larvae that hatch from eggs laid on corn silk outside the husk must work their way inside to the new silk and the kernels when their only passageway is restricted—as it is when the husk covers the whole ear and extends well beyond the tip—one frequently runs upon another. No larva feeding by itself goes out of its way to pick a fight. But when it meets a fellow feeder it immediately looses for a soft vulnerable spot of that fellow-feeder sinks in its powerful little jaws, and ruthlessly devours its victim, down to the hard head capsule. In close quarters, where there is no room for a counter attack, the larva that strikes first is almost certain to win.

In open spaces, the entomologists say, all these tiny larvae look to complete the picture of furious combat is the ability to growl, snarl, or hiss.

Weeds Are an Obstacle to Better Grade of Hay

Weeds are one of the greatest obstacles in producing high grade hay for the market, says W. H. Hosterman hay specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture. He reports that farmers who are planning to profit from a national hay shortage—a shortage that certainly cannot be overcome in less than two or three years—will make every effort to have their hay free from weeds.

To grade as U. S. No. 1 not more than 10 per cent of foreign material—which is usually taken up as weeds—may be present in hay. For Nos. 2 and 3 the tolerance is 15 and 20 per cent, respectively, except for alfalfa where the allowance is 5, 10, and 15 per cent. Alfalfa, says Mr. Hosterman, usually is "very clean," which accounts for the difference in grade requirements.

Weeds are particularly bothersome in the annual hays such as soy beans, Sudan grass, and lespedeza.

The most bothersome weed reported in soy bean hay is the prickly sprgpnettle (bull nettle). With the slightest dampness—even the breath of animals eating it—an offensive odor arises. Seed of the nettle also is objectionable when soy beans are harvested as a seed crop.

SPEND CONFIDENCE CONTINUES TO GAIN

Bankers Report Nation-Wide Improvement in Attitude Toward Banks—Educational Campaigns Play a Part

NEW YORK.—Ninety-six per cent of over 200 reporting clearinghouses throughout the United States find concrete evidence of favorable turns in public opinion regarding banks, it is shown in the results of a survey made by "Banking," the monthly publication of the American Bankers Association. City and country districts in every state are represented, it is pointed out.

"The outstanding conclusion is that there has been a genuine nation-wide improvement the last few months in the attitude of the public toward its banking institutions," the publication says. Statistical evidence on which the bankers base their conclusions which warrant this statement is as follows:

Tax Evidence

"How do bankers know there has been an improvement in the public attitude? They have certain statistical evidence. They have seen their deposits increase substantially in nearly all the cases reported, and tremendously in some cases. Many letters tell of increases of 100 to 300 per cent from the low point of the panic.

"For another thing, they know that fewer people are using safe deposit boxes as a repository for their savings, and that, in many instances at least, postal savings are declining.

"However, many express the view that they could throw out the statistical evidence and still realize that the public is in a better mood where the banks are concerned than before. The best evidence offered on this point, numerous bankers say, is to be found in the acceptance by the public of the newly instituted service charges and the reduced deposit interest rates."

A Summary of the Returns

The statement presents the following summary of the survey:

"We find on breaking up the general classifications of replies to the poll that the 65 per cent of those answering with an unqualified 'yes' represent only a partial measure of the optimistic feeling. Adding the favorable replies included in other groups, (1. e. 'yes' with qualifications, 'no change,' and 'mixed') we find that the vote shows a definitely healthy situation in 94 per cent of the localities reporting; at least some signs of improvement in another 12 per cent; a continuance of unfavorable conditions in 2 per cent, and a change for the worse in another 2 per cent. It is not too much to say that this is substantially 96 per cent favorable."

Reason for Changed Public Opinion

As to reasons for the changes in public opinion regarding banks reported by the clearinghouses "more than one organization has a word to say about the American Bankers Association advertising and educational material," the magazine says.

It mentions in addition the benefits of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation in the emergency, improvement in the general business situation, the weeding out of weak banks and the banking moratorium.

"The response to the survey can be put down as encouraging and informative," the magazine concludes. "It holds out the definite hope that with a continuance of a cooperative, educational attitude on the part of the bankers the rest of the journey back to normal may well be completed in the not too distant future."
